Concept of Service Learning

- Teaching and learning strategy that integrates meaningful community service with instruction and reflection to enrich the learning experience, internalize civic responsibility and strengthen communities.

SL –Health & Environment

- As a form of community-centered experiential education that places emerging health professionals in community-generated service projects and provides structured opportunities for reflection on the broader social, economic, and political contexts of health & Environment.

HOW AT TUC?

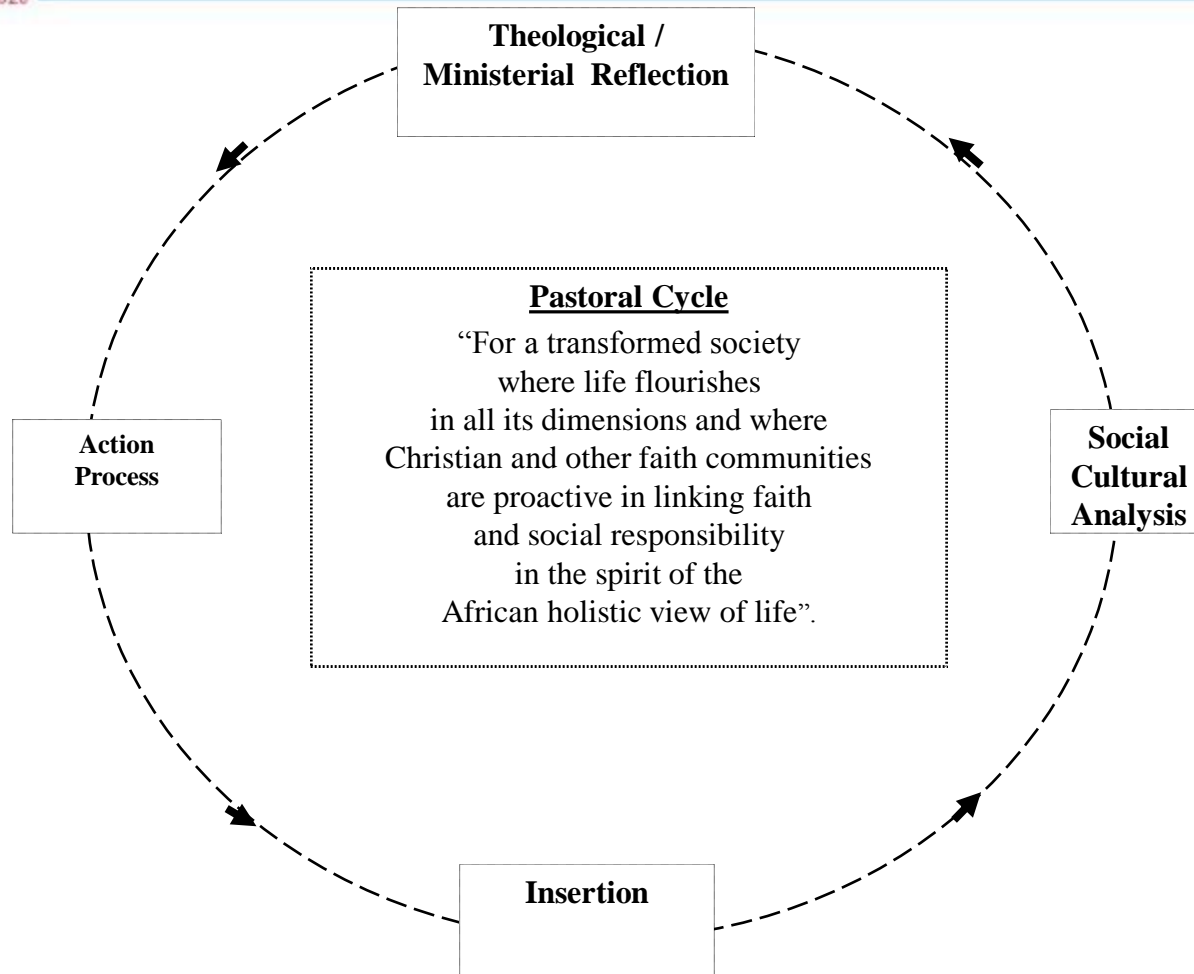

Social Transformation:

...A significant change in social systems...

... and in people's consciousness

Methodology for Social Transformation called “Pastoral Cycle”; Five Stages:

Insertion, Social Cultural Analysis, Theological Reflection, Action & Celebration

PC as Praxis for SL

Four characteristics:

1. Concerned with Human Dignity and Social Justice, promoting life in fullness for all
2. Starting from people's suffering... anguishes and hopes, sorrows and joys

PC

3. A process open to what is still unheard of,
not just a "project"
4. Both a religious and social dimension are present

TUC response to Health & Environment issues
